

Reflection on student experience

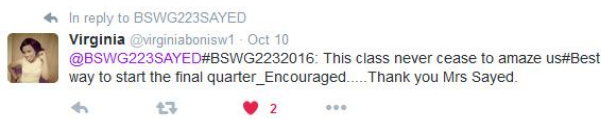

"Seek opportunities to show you care. The smallest gestures often make the biggest difference."

John Wooden

Socrative is a new tool that I integrated into the classroom, students enjoyed the space race as it was a fun way to learn and prepare for classroom discussions.

I would certainly integrate this tool in future. I would also like to add the kahoot feature, this is more of an individual quiz and it will create an active learning environment

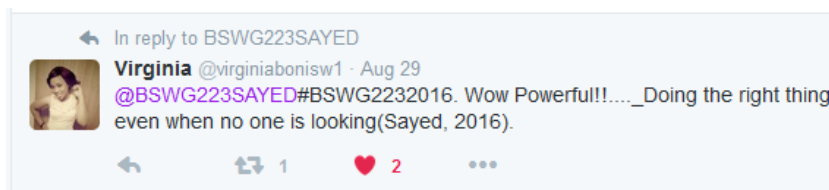

Twitter gave me the opportunity to receive feedback from students willingly. Students enjoyed the creativity in the classroom and this gave them an opportunity to learn in a creative way.

This module gave me the opportunity to integrate many tools and mediums for learning. I would certainly make use of these tools and mediums in future, however not all modules gives me the opportunity to do so.

I test students knowledge before I teach them. I believe that students come to class with their own knowledge and experience and if they are wrong they learn from their mistakes.

For this lesson, students designed an advert for a social work position. We had class discussions regarding the advert.

It is interesting to note that students pick up more than the lecturer thinks and this student sums it up very well.
